VALDELLE ROSE

MAREMMA TOSCANA

When the family bought Val delle Rose, it consisted of just 25 hectares which have now become over 105.

After the dutiful and clever organization of the agronomic part, the estate launched the construction of a new cellar, now equipped with the latest technology, for the best possible vinification of the grapes harvested.

Morellino di Scansano, Litorale, Vermentino Maremma Toscana DOC, Aurelio, a Rosso Maremma Toscana DOC and Il Cilieggiolo Maremma Toscana DOC are here produced in a unique and modern style.

An important activity that accompanies and supports production is the recent opening of a hospitality area open to the public, where visitors can enjoy the experience of this land and its wines.

Val Delle Rose

Introduction

Val delle Rose is another estate owned by the historic Cecchi family. It is run impeccably, lovingly, and boasts one of the most beautiful wineries in all of Tuscany. In 1996, Famiglia Cecchi purchased the Val delle Rose winery in the small town of Poggio la Mozza, which lies at the productive heart of Morellino di Scansano. At the time of its acquisition, Val delle Rose had 25 hectares of vines.

The Cecchi intervention was comparable to a minor farming revolution, as the agricultural techniques used until then did not ensure the batch-to-batch consistency needed for the viability of a winery. A study of the property's soil revealed the enormous potential of this terroir. The study was so promising that the Cecchi family decided to extend the land under vines to about the current 100 hectares. This beautiful estate, in the western part of Tuscany, is situated at the center of a perfect zone where the climate and constant exposure to the sun guarantee exceptionally ripe grapes (mainly Sangiovese). The excellent ripeness of the grapes and the perfectly managed vineyard guarantee elegant, mature, and structured wines.
