The Heart of Duca di Salaparuta

Duca di Salaparuta's roots run deep in Sicily — shaping the rich legacy and bright future of Sicilian wine.

Founded in 1824 by Giuseppe Alliata (The Duke of Salaparuta), several generations of the Alliata family led the Sicilian winemaking movement, transforming the island's reputation far beyond its inexpensive, bulk wine origins. This Icon Wine, Duca Enrico, became the greatest catalyst for the winemaking renaissance with its debut vintage in 1984. As the first single-varietal bottling of 100% Nero d'Avola from Sicily, Duca Enrico exemplified the strength and beauty of this native varietal on home soil. Its impact was profound and immediate, earning the Tre Bicchieri Award with its very first vintage, the first wine south of Tuscany to achieve this recognition, and ultimately elevating Nero d'Avola globally as Sicily's signature red grape.

Two centuries later, as the largest private wine group in Sicily with three estates across the island, Duca di Salaparuta carries this legacy forward with even greater commitment to innovation, sustainability, and terroir-expressive quality. Every decision protects the balance and longevity of their foundational roots — from reusing water and waste throughout the entire cycle to transforming the original 1800s production area in Bagheria into an open-air artistic workshop for the community.

Vinification & Aging

FERMENTATION

After the crates have been unloaded, the grapes are sorted and destemmed. Fermentation then occurs in stainless steel at a controlled temperature of 26-28 °C, while the pulp and skins undergo maceration. Fermentation continues with precise maceration and délestage.

SECONDARY FERMENTATION

Once fermentation is complete, the wine remains in contact with the grape skins for another week. After the first racking, the wine is transferred to concrete tanks for malolactic fermentation.

AGING

14-18 months in new (60%) and second-passage (40%), fine-grained, and elegantly toasted oak barriques.

BOTTLE AGING

At least one year.
